

Three questions to ask your logistics provider before entering a new market

Do they have the right digital tools to make global shipping easier?

Work smarter and faster, not harder with tools like:

FedEx Ship Manager™ at fedex.com automates the entire shipping process, from creating shipments to printing labels

FedEx® Electronic Trade Documents allows submission of trade and custom clearance documents digitally

FedEx® Reporting Online lets you analyze shipment patterns for strategic business decision making

Are they e-commerce friendly?

To cater to customers anywhere and enable seamless shipping, choose a provider whose services easily integrate with e-commerce platforms and your own systems

FedEx API is a convenient way to directly integrate your application with FedEx services - making the handling of packages and transactions speedy

Shopify Ship, Rate, and Track, WooCommerce Shipping Services, and BigCommerce Ship, Rate, and Track for FedEx are free shipping applications that provide:

- Quick and easy installation of FedEx into your e-store
- Live calculated international and freight shipping rates for your customers
- Label creation within applications
- Automated updates on orders with tracking numbers so customers can easily follow their package

FedEx Direct to retail-Hold at location allows customers to pick up packages in-store or at a FedEx location convenient to them

Do they provide a wide delivery network and time-critical services?

The connected global customer wants quick delivery, and your logistics provider must meet this expectation.

FedEx International First®

Wake up to absolute certainty with our early-day delivery to key global markets - customs cleared, door-to-door.

FedEx International Priority® Express

Delivery by 10:30 or noon in 1 to 3 business days to select markets in Asia, United States, Canada and Europe.

FedEx International Priority®

Delivery typically in 1 to 3 business days depending on destination by end-of-day to more than 220 countries and territories.

FedEx® International Connect Plus

As a day-definite and e-commerce delivery service, FICP combines competitive speed with attractive prices to meet global customers' need.

Expanding your business is a time of celebration.

Don't let the small stuff cloud your big moment - let your logistics provider work for you while you reach greater heights.
