(A) Steps to raise a dispute for individual shipments

Step 5: Select the “Dispute type” and “Dispute reason” that apply to your shipment

5.1 Dispute type: Incorrect Account

- If you select “Rebill to the shipper” as the dispute reason, then provide a written description in the text box provided (“Additional Dispute Comments”) which could help with our investigation.

The screenshot shows a web form titled "Dispute Tracking ID" with a "Back" link in the top right. Below the title is a note: "Please enter any pertinent details below. To ensure your dispute is processed in a timely manner, please do not use this form for support requests." There are links for "Clear all fields" and "Help". The form is divided into a "Dispute Information" section. On the left, there are input fields for "Account no." (1350), "Invoice no." (886), and "Airwaybill no." (425248). Below these are dropdown menus for "Dispute type" (set to "Incorrect Account") and "Dispute Reason" (set to "Rebill to the Shipper"). On the right, there is a text area labeled "Additional Dispute Comments" containing the text "Not my shipment". A yellow callout box with a purple border points to this text area, containing the text: "Description of the dispute : e.g., 'I was unaware of this shipment so should not have been invoiced for it.'" At the bottom right of the form is a red-bordered "Submit dispute" button and another "Back" link.

- If you select “Rebill to another account” as the dispute reason, then you must enter another payer account number in the text box provided (“Account no.”). The new payer account must be valid and must have agreed to be rebilled.

The screenshot shows the same "Dispute Tracking ID" form. The "Dispute Reason" dropdown is now set to "Rebill to another account". A new "Account no." input field is visible, containing the number "604". A yellow callout box with a purple border points to this field, containing the text: "Enter a different FedEx account number to be rebilled for the shipment." The "Submit dispute" button and "Back" link are also present.

- Click on the “Submit dispute” button as the last step.
